8/26/68

Dear Mr. Brown,

Your letter of 8/21 arrived promptly. I've been too busy to answer sooner.

I have made no study of CE 111, but there seems to be at least another possibility: someone was practising with it.

However, if Oswald did have official connnections, as I am confident he did, his use of the foreign language gave an added security, particularly if he was practising. I merely throw this out as a possibility, nothing more than a remote one.

From the little I know, your presumption seems like the most reasonable one.

Your letter of 8/16 did reach me promptly. I didn't answer because I'm finishing the sixth book. Now I've got to return to the fifth and finish it.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
